

DARRYL COTTON BAND

Darryl Cotton has long been recognized as one of Australia's most popular and successful entertainers, with a career of more than 30 years in the entertainment industry.....

A founding member of the Aussie rock band ZOOT along with Rick Springfield (Jessie's Girl) and Beeb Birtles (Little River Band).... Their classic 1970's recording of Eleanor Rigby was a gold record no: 1 and established ZOOT as one of the most popular Australian bands of that era. The mid 70's saw Darryl based in the US and recording 3 albums including the Billboard top 40 hit "I go to Pieces"...He appeared on a number of US TV shows such as American Bandstand and the "Midnite Special" and toured with Olivia Newton John and Cliff Richard.

A successful solo career followed and songwriting credits for such artists as Mississippi, The New Seekers, Shaun Cassidy and Englebert Humperdink.....In 1980 he scored a top 10 Australian hit with the self penned "Same Old Girl" and became a regular face on the ABC's Countdown. In 1983 Darryl, along with his side kick Marty Monster, began hosting Ten network's "Early Bird Show"...The show was a huge national success running for 5 years and introduced him to a new generation of fans...In recent years Darryl has performed regularly with several Aussie music "legends"including Russell Morris, Ronnie Burns and Jim Keays,
